

SUPPORTING NURSING IN BAMENDA, CAMEROON

Helping improve medical care for very sick children in Bamenda, Cameroon

Help us to recruit, train and employ nurses to help sick children in Bamenda, Cameroon. Without trained nurses, children are suffering and rely on carers to provide basic nursing duties whilst in hospital.

Just £90 a month will employ, train and support a nurse for a month to help these sick children. Please help today.

The Charity

CAI (Child Advocacy International) is a charity set up to help improve healthcare for children around the world. Our special role is helping poor countries build medical capacity for the future which we do by supporting and educating local doctors and nurses as well as the provision of essential and appropriate equipment.

Bamenda

Bamenda is the main town in the north-west province of Cameroon. Children come from all over the province for treatment, some travelling a great distance in difficult conditions. This is a Government run hospital and CAI has been working for over two years, improving facilities, providing medical supplies and equipment and training local medical staff.

The Nurses Bamenda Needs

CAI would like to employ 6 dedicated nurses for the paediatric, neo-natal and maternity units at Bamenda Hospital. These nurses would receive training and would remain on paediatric, neo-natal and obstetric wards. At the moment CAI provides training for local medical staff that are available, but often finds nurses are moved to other wards. CAI would like to ensure that there are nurses available for the paediatric, obstetric and neo-natal wards able to give the best nursing care possible for sick and injured babies and children.

How much do we need

Just £90.00 will support a nurse for a month. This includes the nurse's wage, training and support.

Please help give the children of Bamenda a chance to receive the healthcare they deserve. Whatever you can give will make such a difference and could help save a young life.
